

Start your career with us

You're probably looking for a prospective employer that can offer job security, quality training, career progression and a positive work environment. We're able to provide all of these.

Job security: If you're going to build your career in a company, you want to know it's going to be around in the future. We've been in business since 1977 and have been on a continuous expansion path from that time. We have strong financials (being debt-free) and have over 40,000 clients.

Quality training: We look to hire people that are willing to learn and can be trained. Successful employees have generally come to us with good communication & interpersonal skills, life skills and a record of success in past roles or endeavors. However, we don't necessarily expect people will already possess actual collections skills. Often people starting with us know nothing about the industry. We provide quality training for all roles we recruit for within the company. We also offer a variety of opportunities...

Benefits of a career with us to continue learning throughout your career with us. We run a management cadetship program, in-house seminar series, and advanced skills training modules. These opportunities are presented in line with our ingrained culture of continuous teaching and learning.

Career progression: For those interested in progressing their career, in addition to offering ongoing learning opportunities, we also offer maximum prospects for promotion from within. This means that we nurture and support talented people to ensure we fill management level positions through internal promotion as we expand and grow.

Positive work environment: We're looking for positive, well balanced people because we offer a positive, balanced workplace.

Our time spent at work makes up a large part of our day, so it should ideally be filled with interesting tasks. We're at the coalface of the legal profession and we're dealing with people, and therefore every file we handle is different.

We offer encouragement, celebrate achievements and ensure every employee understands how their contributions positively impact on the company's performance.

We offer flexibility. During your working life, there are times when you may want to increase or decrease your work hours or responsibilities. With our range of full time, part time, job share, cadetship, and specialist roles, you'll find plenty of opportunity for change.

The sorts of people we wish to attract to Prushka are people who are seeking a professional work environment. Such an environment requires people with integrity, attention to detail, and passion for their role.
